

An Awesome Straight-To-The-Point Privacy Policy

What we built is free. No frills. We promise. We do not collect, process, or store any data or information that you recorded on your virtual machine. What you build is yours and as the world's greatest privacy policy says, what happens on your computer stays on your computer.

But, since we are in Microsoft Azure's marketplace, they may forward over to us the information that you submitted to them – stuff that will let us know if your name is Jaden Smith and if Jaden Smith downloaded our awesome virtual machine. You can view what Microsoft collects about Jaden Smith here.

We built this virtual machine and API kit for you to be able to have your first experience with blockchain. If you think that blockchain is your thing and if you decide to take the experience further by engaging in SCiChain's consultancy services, then we will collect more information through a separate engagement.

For now, we're all good. So buckle your seats boys and girls because at this spectacular time of your life, you will be able to finally read an actual Privacy Policy from the beginning 'til the end and in a few more redirects from Microsoft, you will experience this lean, mean, hardcore banging blockchain machine.